

Look Good . . . Feel Better

for women in cancer treatment

Look Good . . . Feel Better

This free program is designed for women who are undergoing chemotherapy or radiation therapy to help restore their appearance and self-image during treatment.

American Cancer Society-trained cosmetologists lead the group through practical hands-on demonstrations. Learn about makeup techniques, skin and nail care, and options related to hair loss such as wigs, hats, scarves and accessories to manage changes in appearance that result from treatment.

Each participant will receive a kit of cosmetics and skin care products for use during and after the workshop.

Edward-Elmhurst Healthcare presents this program in collaboration with the American Cancer Society.

The class is free, but registration is required. Please call to reserve your seat at the next workshop.
